The Maryland Community Health Resources Commission increases access to health care for low-income and uninsured Maryland residents through grants to community-based providers in urban, suburban and rural areas statewide. Since February, 2007, the Commission has created access that will serve over 32,000 patients through $12.9 Million in awards for 49 multi-year projects. Commission grants of $3.1 Million are creating Electronic Medical Records in over 50 sites statewide, and developing a pilot electronic patient eligibility and enrollment system.
