PROCUREMENT METHOD

Small Procurement – Invitation for bid

BACKGROUND

The Office of Surveillance and Quality Initiatives within the Maternal Child Health Bureau, Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, proposes to support the services of an expert in both addiction medicine and obstetrics to create and provide training modules for substance abuse treatment providers on evidence based assessment and treatment of pregnant women with substance use disorders, including appropriate care through the post-partum period.

Substance Use Disorders in pregnant women has been an emerging area of concern for both perinatal care providers and substance abuse treatment providers. According to the National Survey on Drug Use and Health 2012 (NSDUH), among pregnant women aged 15 to 44, 5.9 percent acknowledged current illicit drug use. Among Maryland women, aged 15-44, from the NSDUH survey 2008-2011, 7.8 percent of pregnant women acknowledged current illicit substance use.

Substance use during pregnancy may result in premature birth, miscarriage, as well as Neonatal Abstinence Syndrome (NAS) in exposed newborns. While pregnant substance abusing women are given priority when requesting substance abuse treatment, many treatment providers do not feel comfortable providing services for pregnant women and several geographic areas in the state have few substance abuse treatment resources in general. Again according to the NSDUH survey from 2002-2011, only 3.8% of Maryland females, aged 15-44, needing treatment for illicit drug use, indicated that they received treatment in a specialized treatment program for pregnant women.

This project will address the need to focus greater attention on addressing drug abuse among this population by providing specialized training to substance abuse treatment providers throughout the state on the care of substance abuse disorders in pregnant women. This will increase capacity of substance abuse treatment programs to provide services to pregnant women, improving access to care as well as raising the standard of care for this vulnerable group of Maryland women.

SCOPE OF WORK

The Office of Surveillance and Quality Initiatives is seeking a physician with training in both obstetrics and addictions medicine to create and provide expert training in the management of substance use disorders during pregnancy and the postpartum period for substance abuse treatment providers throughout the State of Maryland. The training module(s) should include the importance of screening all women of reproductive age for pregnancy on entry into substance abuse treatment, the impact of substance abuse on pregnancy, the impact of pregnancy on substance abuse management, standards for optimal care of pregnant and post-partum women receiving substance abuse treatment, and the importance of collaborating with a woman's prenatal care provider for the best coordination of care. A basic training module should be developed for both in person and online use. The expert trainer will also assist the Office in developing online materials and links as further resources for substance abuse treatment providers.

DESCRIPTION OF SERVICE

The selected expert trainer is expected to:

- Develop CME-approved training modules for both web-based and in person training sessions for substance abuse treatment providers caring for pregnant and post-partum women.
